

MEMORY

Abstract of the Disclosure

A memory that includes a controller and a media including first information is provided. A first read/write mechanism is provided including an electron emitter configured to read the first information. The controller is configured to receive a first signal generated in response to the first information being read and generate a second signal configured to cause a position of the media to be adjusted relative to the electron field emitter in response to the first signal.